AN OPERATOR IN BOSTON HEARS HIS AUDIENCE APPLAUD IN SALEM, EIGHTEEN MILES AWAY. The Boston Globe of Tuesday the 13th has a dispatch three-quarters of a column long which was spoken in Salem and heard and printed in Boston. Professor Graham A. Bell, the inventor of the wonderful system, gave a lecture about the telephone in Salem, and to illustrate its working capacity he had the operator in Boston give the audience the news from Washington. Every word was heard all over the hall, and the spectators were so astonished that they broke into applause, and, what is marvellous, the applause was heard in the Boston office, eighteen miles away. The Globe says: "Coughing and singing were then heard and a variety of questions were then asked from the Salem end, and among them, What news from the Electoral Commission?' followed by the distinct answer of 'I don't know of any.' But the news came the 10th instant, accused baving secured fleeting along that the engineers of the Boston and Maine railroad had struck. General Cogswell asked if trains were running. The answer was clear and distinct that they were not at half-past 5 o'clock. Professor Bell introduced the Rev. E. C. Bolles, who said. 'I shake hands with you cordially in imagination twenty miles away.' The Rev. E. S. Atwood asked, 'Does it rain?' 'It does not in Boston,' was Mr. Watson's answer. Professor Gage, the electrician, then spoke through the telephone, endeavoring to have his voice recognized. This could not be done, as Mr. Watson was not familiar with the voice. Mr. Shaje Zsawa was recognized, Mr. Watson being perfectly fa-miliar with his tones. One of the assistants in Boston then said that 'Hold the Fort' would be sung in Boston, and the tune which followed was readily recognized. Professor Bell closed his lecture by briefly stating the practical uses to which he was confident the telephone could be applied. Hearty applause was afforded the lecturer as he finished, and people flocked about the stage in large numbers to more closely examine the wonderful instrument that had placed them in audible communication with people nearly twenty miles away. The lecture and experiments were the alarm given from Box 34, at the corner an unqualified success. Among those present were Dr. Henry Wheatland, president of Essex Institute; the Rev. E. C. Bolles, Ph. D.; Professor D. B. Hagar, of the State Normal School; General William Cogswell, the Rev. E. S. Atwood, Professor John Robinson, Dr. Amos H. Johnson, ex-Mayor Williams, Dr. George B. Loring, A. C. Goodell, Jr., and many others who are identified or particularly interested in scientific

THE PAINLESS DEATH .- In a recent holiday lecture at the Royal Institution, Professor Tyndall, speaking of the painless death by electricity, remarked that Franklin was twice struck senseless by the shock. He afterwards sent the discharge of two large jars through six robust men, who fell to the ground and got up again without knowing what had happened, neither hearing nor feeling the discharge; and Priestly, too, who made many valuable contributions to electricity, received the charge of two jars, but did not find it painful. Professor Tyndalı said this experience agreed with his own; that, in the theatre of the Royal Institution, and in the presence of an audience, he once received the discharge of a battery of fifteen Leyden jars. Unlike Franklin's six men, he did not fall, but, like them, he felt nothing; he was simply extinguished for a sensible interval. This may be regarded as an experimental proof that people killed by lightning suffer From the following extract from the report no pain: Now, the measured velocity of of the Superintendent of Shockoe Hill Cemelectricity is many thousand times greater etery to the Committee on Cemeteries it will than the measured velocity of sensation in be seen that the city is sadly in need of adthe nerves. ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—George Krammer resident of Manchester, attempted to kill himself in this city yesterday about 12 o'clock. Krammer having had some difficulties with his wife left this city on the 12th. Having visited New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore, he returned here by of a friend, with whom he took breakfast. Later in the day, his family affairs having been brought into conversation, he became frantic, and with a sharp pocket-knife INDICATIONS FOR To-DAY .- For the stabbed himself in the breast and cut one South Atlantic States, cooler northwest hand very severely. Burnett, attracted by the cries, came up, took off his overcoat, wrapped it around her, and extinguished the flames, burning his hands somewhat. The lady was quite badly injured.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT .- A scaffold on a new building in Elba Park fell yesterday, throwing to the ground Mr. Creer, a carpenter, and breaking one of his legs.

REHEARING IN THE WALDMAN CASE-AC-CUSED AGAIN FOUND GUILTY-APPEAL TO THE HUSTINGS COURT TAKEN. - Police-Justice White yesterday granted a rehearing to John Waldman, charged with turning in a false fire-alarm from Box 34 on the night of the attendance of two new and important witnesses. A special session of the Police Court was held yesterday evening, and a patient and thorough examination of Thomas Wren, Policeman Garthright, Captain Philhps, Chief Ainslie, Alexander Jennings, John D. Lively, Willie Cottrell, Henry Cottrell, and Walter Cottrell was had. The three last were with Waldman on the night of the fire. As two of them were visitors here at the time of the occurrence, and had left the city for their homes in other States when the former examination took place, their testimony could not be procured.

In relation to the investigation by the assignees should not be granted. t appeared that it was of an informal character, and that the Messrs. Cottrell were the only witnesses examined. Captain Phillips said that Waldman was "honorably discharged" by the Board. Chief Ainslie said we couldn't convict him. We didn't think we were justified in having him arrested." All of the evidence given in the former trial was repeated. The statements of witnesses on the part of the city tended to show that Waldman and two of the Cottrells were on Cary street between Fourteenth and Fifteenth immediately after the bells sounded of Thirteenth and Cary streets. That was between 12:10 and 12:15 o'clock. The Messrs. Cottrell, on the other hand, swore positively that Waldman was with them near the corner of Fifteenth and Main streets when the bells struck this alarm.

The strong points made against Waldman by Mr. S. M. Page, who represented the complainant in the case, was that Waldman refused to tell Garthright when they met at Box 34, after the arrival of the engines, who it was that ran off from him up the alley, or was with him (Waldman) on Cary street near the mouth of the alley when Garthright passed; and, finally, that when Garthright accused Waldman of turning in the false alarm Waldman did not deny the charge.

Accused was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and be imprisoned one month. He took an appeal to the Hustings Court. Bail was allowed. Mr. Cabell will there not only claim that the facts do not justify conviction, but that the ordinance under which it is proposed to punish Waldman is illegal and of no effect. For one thing, it is claimed by him that the charter authorizes imprisonment in ordinance cases only for non-payment of fines. In this ordinance the Council proposes to make the punishment both fine and imprisonment.

Anderson, the gifted southern actress, will Richmond Theatre. She comes to this city highly endorsed by such papers as the Chicago Tribune and other northern and western journals. The first-named paper says she is remarkably gifted; that she has ability as a tragic actress-such ability as is not developed in the midst of a large nation oftener than once in a generation. The Tribune is accustomed to speak with moderation on such subjects; but it would be unfaithful not recognize the genius of Miss Anderson, and urge all interested in the drama the importance of witnessing at least one of her impersonations. The marvel in her case is not entirely that she acts so well, but that she accomplishes what she does in spite of youth and incorporations. to its duty as a purveyor of the news if it did she does in spite of youth and inexperience. She is yet but nineteen years of age, and has been acting less than a year, yet she has the mental poise, the dignity, the self-possession of one born and bred upon the stage. Her personal charms are of a high order, combining a tall and lithe figure with an expressive countenance. "If we urge those who are fond of the Theatre in Chicago to witness at least one of Miss Anderson's performances, it is not because we feel any undue interest in her WANTED, personal fortunes, but because the opportunity is one which no theatre-goer should lose. She will make her way. If she lives, and continues faithful to her profession, she will play to houses in Chicago in which standing-room will be in demand. The only present concern is that many who would like to assist at the welcome of so promising an artiste may lose the pleasure through carelessness or ignorance of her merits."

To-night Miss Anderson appears here in the Lady of Lyons.

THE LECTURE LAST NIGHT .- Mr. James P. Cowardin gave his humorous lecture last evening in the hall of the House of Delegates to a fine audience. The lecture consisted of travelling sketches of the Suez canel, Red Sea, and Palermo, and some well-known sketches from Virginia, and was greatly enjoyed by all who heard it He paid a beautiful tribute to the women of Virginia; and by his wonderful and inimitable powers of mimicry kept his audience in a roar of laughter from the beginning to the end of his lecture. Many left the hall with aching sides; and if there be any truth in the old saying, " to laugh and grow fat," not a few of that number will find their bodily condition improved.
